

20

(Carruthers looks to her daughters to agree with her)

V
 sca-ly When her hands get wet or soaked in soap, her hands crack so she can - not cope. You'd think she had burned them

Pno

26

Edith and Kate: (Reluctantly singing, although they are grossed out)

V on a rope they get so red and bloo-dy. So bloo - - - - dy they get so red and

Pno

32

Dame Carruthers:

(Carruthers slaps Kate on the back so she has to cough)

V
 bloo - dy! And Kate she can - not dust or sweep; Her asth - ma means she can't breathe deep.

Pno

37

Edith and Kate:

V
 So on your hands and knees you must creep and clean up all the dust heaps. Yes, do - ing chores we must fore-go, al -

Pno

V

-though our ail-ments may not show. So on your hands and knees you must creep and clean up all the dust heaps. But

Pno

V

how am I sup-posed to meet a gen-tle-man who's hand-some and sweet If I'm in kee-ping the house neat

Pno

p p

V

Ev-ry day of the week? I could be out there mee-ting a man. But, no, in-stead I'm clea-ning up the can! This was -n't part of my big plan and now my fu-ture looks bleak! It is n't fair that they go out; they meet all sorts of

Pno

V

Pno

Edith & Kate:

68

V

men no doubt! While I'm in here scrub - bing the grout which is so grey and gri-my! While you're in here scrub-

Pno

Cinderella:

74

V

bing the grout which is so grey and gri-my! Please don't mi-sun-der - stand my tone; I sim ply don't want to

Pno

Edith & Kate:

80

V

die a-lone, as a sad, lone ly old crone who's sin - gle 'til she's nine-ty! Now we don't care for your curt tone or

Pno